OUR LOCAL STOCKS.

THE STEAMBOAT COMPANY.

The earning powers of the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Co., Ltd. have long been recognised and appreciated, and an exceptionally lengthy run of good fortune has, in spite of gross muddling and mismanagement entirely without parallel in the history of local enterprises, provided handsome dividends and placed the concern on a thoroughly solid if not quite an impregnable basis. Within the short space of five years the value of the Company's shares has doubled—on paper—but at all events it has very materially increased. There was a time, and not so very long ago, when this flourishing business was chiefly regarded as a sound and useful commercial investment; the shares were widely circulated and, with the exception of one large holder who had the credit of owning about two thousand shares, were generally held in small lots by all classes of the community. That time is not now; the preponderating influence of the levianth holder was bound to make itself felt, the grasping man of the unscrupulous share trafficker was quickly introduced, and during the past few years there have been as many "rigs" and "regurgies" in connection with Steamboats as with any one of the most notorious gambling stocks in the list. The last (not the latest) move in this direction stands unsurpassed for barefaced audacity, alike in its conception and its successful carrying out, and the main object of this article is, in addition to briefly sketching the true position of the Company, to show how the oracle was worked.

The capital of the Steamboat Company, according to the balance sheet issued in January last, is $300,000, divided into forty thousand shares of $7.50 each, and the same statement shows a very sound and satisfactory financial position. For the preceding six months the Company's vessels had earned, after paying all running expenses, salaries, premia of insurance, repairs, etc., the handsome sum of $114,424.79, which allowed the payment of a dividend to shareholders of seven and a bonus of one per cent. for the half year, in addition to placing $20,000 to the credit of the Depreciation Fund, devoting $7,500 for other useful purposes, and carrying to new account $17,000. On the 2nd of February, the date of the half yearly meeting, Steamboat shares were quoted in the market at 120 per cent. premium, which rather more than represented the actual value of the scrip as an investment. However, this rate remained practically unchanged until about the end of April—excepting for a few days in March, when shares were freely offered at as low as 122—, and then, without any apparent cause, the quotation jumped up by leaps and bounds until it reached on May 6th the extraordinary figure of 183 per cent. premium. Since that date it has fluctuated between 168 and 175, and to-day it stands at about 175. Now let us see how this wonderful improvement in the market value—not the real value, but the market value—of the shares has been effected.

It is a common knowledge that the Company's steamers, or at all events those on the Hongkong—Canton route, were earning large freights, and that, owing to the temporary removal from the line of the China Navigation Co.'s steamer Hankow, the six months' profits would be considerably augmented. At the same time it was a well known fact that necessary repairs to the Hankow would absorb an inconsiderable amount of the earnings. However, a "corner" was rigged to "bull" the stock, and active operations quickly followed. The modus operandi was simple and effective. The "bulls" who are said to have been chiefly well-known Chinese speculators, are credited with having succeeded, by what means we know not, in obtaining a pledge from a very large holder of the stock that he would not place any of his shares on the market, the said large holder thus becoming a sleeping partner in the projected "corner." The actual strength of this arrangement will best be understood when we state that more than half of the Company's shares, according to current belief, are absolutely controlled by two individuals, one of whom is the gentleman who so obligingly promised to "sit on" his shares and not spoil a good thing. The other person may have also been in the swim, but at that point we have no reliable knowledge. Singularly enough about this time a report got into circulation that the Directors, or some of them, had formed a project to increase the capital of the Company from $300,000 to $1,000,000, by the issue of forty thousand new shares of $25 each, at a considerable premium. The truth of this report was soon placed beyond doubt, as it was followed by a notice from the Company to common sense could see the slightest necessity for the proposed increase of capital, its effect on the share market was startling. It was not quite clear in what way this new scheme was to improve the position and prospects of the Steamboat Company, nor have we yet been able to recognise what beneficial influence it is likely to exert on the value of the shares; but anyway it very materially helped the ancient fraternity of "bulls" in "whopping up" the quotation from 123 to 183 per cent. premium, and in inducing the unwary to rush in and buy for forward delivery at even much higher rates. A great authority, the same complacent gentleman who so philanthropically promised not to spoil sport by flooding the market with his hundreds of shares, was credited with having predicted that the rate would rise to 300 per cent. premium, that inspired prophecy was industriously circulated, and doubtless in many quarters it was unhesitatingly accepted as pure gospel. And that was how the "corner" in Steamboats was so artistically arranged.

Very little more remains to be said. The resolution to double the Company's capital was forced through at a packed meeting, although it was perfectly well known that the scheme was almost universally condemned outside the magic circle and that the local banks had positively declined to finance the new scrip. The general conclusion was, and it seems to be justified, that the only possible result of the increased capital would be to benefit the two gigantic shareholders, who are also directors, at the expense of the rank and file, and to aid the enterprising Chinese gamblers and their associates in "rigging" the share market. It is worthy of note that about this period the Hon. J. J. Kewick, of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., declined to accept a seat at the Board, and a Chinese gentleman, Mr. Poon Pong, who possesses exactly the same amount of influence over the Canton river traffic and exactly the same amount of knowledge of the management of a steamboat company as his co-director—that is to say none at all—was appointed to the vacancy. Mr. Poon Pong's directorship was a sop to Cerberus, a sort of ill-handled concession to oblige the Chinese speculators already referred to, and to check-mate a threatened opposition on the Canton river under Celestial auspices. Well, the resolution to double the capital was duly carried and confirmed, but somehow the project has hung fire, and the quotation has not risen to 300 per cent. premium. This shows that even "the ancients" are not quite infallible. But quite a new phase has been lately introduced by an announcement that at an extraordinary meeting of shareholders to be held on August 3rd a special resolution "that the Company may from time to time reduce its capital" will be brought forward. If the increase of capital was such an absolute necessity and advantage as set out by the Hon. Mr. Kewick on May 18th, when proposing the resolution, what is the use of this latest after-thought? It suggests pretty plainly either that the increase of capital project has been weighed in the balance and found wanting, or that it was originally brought forward for a certain purpose, and that purpose having been served, the time has arrived when arrangements are necessary that it may be decorously shelved at the first favorable opportunity.

The Company, on duty, have had a prosperous six months, although the net profits are scarcely so large as reported. Further, it is stated that the returns to the Hankow cost far beyond what was estimated, and that other expensive matters have cropped up which will scarcely justify the huge dividend so confidently predicted at the beginning of May. It has also been recognised that the Canton river traffic cannot be made a monopoly, even by the powerful combination which has played the boycotting game so low down for so many months. In trying to run the Pacific off the line the Steamboat Company suffered a humiliating defeat. They actually employed the Kiang-chow to "shadow" the Chinese-owned craft, but the plan failed, and the Pacific is running now, and obtaining a fair share of support. And a more dangerous opposition is imminent. The Chinese are proverbially slow to move, but when once started they use a popular phrase, "get there all the same." A new steamer, almost a fac-simile of the Fatshan but on a smaller scale, is in course of construction at home, and will be sent out here in pieces and put together in the colony. She is intended for the night route, and the two vessels will very shortly try their luck at the same game. It is also rumoured that syndicate has been formed to purchase the China Merchants' Co.'s side-wheeler Kiang-ping, now on sale in Shanghai, so that taken altogether the Steamboat Company will have all its work cut out to stifle opposition and keep the Canton river the gold mine it has proved for so many years.

How did the "corner" end? It has not ended yet, and there are troublesome times in store for many fond believers. But the Chinese "got left."

HERE is a choice specimen of missionary wit from the China Mail. Referring to Monsieur de Mayrems, the King of the Sedangs, our local Jamie Fleeman says—"Evidently his Sedang Majesty is not appreciated by the high authorities in Paris." And yet evasive people say that it requires a blacksmith's hammer to drive the almighty appreciation of wit or humour into a Scotchman's cranium.

We read that the cruiser Magdalen made another attempt to pass her four hours' trial under forced draught at Portsmouth on the 8th June. After the expiration of the third hour the boilers primed to such an extent that it was deemed useless to continue the run. Though the engines worked admirably, the mean results of the three hours failed to quite come up to the contract power of 9,000 horses. The average revolutions were 138, and the power developed by the starboard engine was 4,339 and by the port engine 4,441, making a collective indicated horse-power of 8,780. During the trial four runs were made on the measured mile, which gave a mean speed of 18.85 knots. The pitch of the propellers is greater by six, than in the case of the sister ships, and the result shows that with the guaranteed power there would be no difficulty in realising 19 knots, the designed speed. So far as the trials of the "M" class of cruisers have proceeded, they have shown the necessity of providing them with greater boiler power.

A CHINAMAN reported to the police yesterday that his wife had run away, and he feared, had married a creditor to whom he owed thirty dollars. TEA business in Foochow proceeds but slowly. The "Glen" liner Glenlyon was expected to get away on the 16th inst., but no news of her departure has yet reached us. JOURNALISM as a Fine Art—Night Editor.—This report of a tramp run over by the midnight express is very vivid. How did you get it so soon? At the farewell dinner to Mr. Christie Murray on the 7th June, Sir George Elliot, M.P., a Conservative, created some astonishment, in replying for the Houses of Parliament, by declaring himself hostile to the hereditary principles in the House of Lords, and suggesting that no one should be allowed to sit there who had not first sat in the House of Commons, and passed a qualifying examination.

THE Daily Press, after thinking over the matter for weeks, believes that the search made by the Opium Police's excise officers of the persons of passengers arriving in the colony is entirely illegal. Our contemporary's belief will not hold water. The right of searching for opium by these officers is fully and clearly sanctioned by the Opium Ordinances of 1884 and 1887. The method of searching is quite another matter.

THE Government of Bavaria proposes to establish an academy for the instruction of painters in the mysteries of restoring old and more or less damaged pictures to their pristine glory. This design is offset by a scheme suggested in London, which renders the Bavarian idea entirely useless. The English plan is to re-establish a school for instruction in the art of producing the works of the "old masters" themselves. The demand being much greater than the supply, it would be a praiseworthy act to encourage the manufacture of "old masters." Indeed, judging from many specimens which have been purchased lately at fabulous cost, the suspicion is reasonable that something of the kind is already in operation in the great European art centres.

THE Smithsonian Institution in the United States is reported to have received a gift of great antiquity from His Excellency Chang, Chinese Minister to Washington. It is a "jade" ring, about ten inches in diameter and one-eighth of an inch in thickness, with a hollow centre about four inches in diameter. It is of a pale blue. The ring is known as the "Han Pek" jewel of the dynasty of Han, an old-time monarch of 3500 years ago. Count of the date of the day, when an audience was accorded them by the Emperor, held the ring with both hands and thrust their fingers into the opening to guard against moving their hands while addressing the throne, the emphasizing of their remarks by flourishes of their hands, presumably being contrary to official etiquette. The ring was used as an emblem of submission or respect for the sovereign. It was recently unearthed from a sepulchre, having been buried with the owner.

THUS the plain-spoken correspondent of a home paper:—The Queen has drawn up a memorandum as to the manner in which her funeral is to be conducted, and she has announced that it will not give any sitting for the rest of her lifetime to paint or sculpture. What can be the matter with her? Is the long-remembered abdication about to take place? Is the retired life which she has led for so many years going to be further intensified by her entrance to a convent? Her ancestor, George the Third, we know, became insane in his old age, and many of the Guelphs have done strange things since. She says that she must not be emboldened of their only chance of getting anything out of her. I notice, too, that she is a state garden party this year, and she is intriguing to procure payment from the State of the cost of entertaining her visitor, the Shah of Persia. Her mysterious instincts grow. This diseased love of money is a humiliating spectacle in the monarch of this mighty empire, more especially as we know that at her death she intends that her vast accumulations shall be divided mostly among foreigners.

It would appear from the letter of a Chinese correspondent published in the morning paper that the Opium Farmer's officers are now prevented from searching the Chinese passengers (from Canton and Macao) on the Steamboat Company's wharf, and therefore carry on their operations outside. If this is true it is surely bad policy on the part of the management of the Company. The legal right to exclude the excise officers from the wharf is by no means certain, and the Opium Farmer can easily retaliate for being thus impeded in the protection of his lawful rights by sending a horde of his myrmidons on board every steamer as it comes alongside and insisting on his undoubted right to thoroughly search the ship passengers (except the Chinese) and the passengers themselves. The detention of passengers, and general inconvenience thus caused would quickly bring the Company to terms. But what is actually needed is the repeal of the clauses in the Opium Ordinance legalising these wholesale searching powers. Before that can be done, however, a very substantial quid pro quo will have to be given to the Opium Farmer, who is reported to be losing on his present contract with the Government about $10,000 per month.

A PARIS fakir is making a fortune by advertising a cure for corpulency, which will, without injury to health, take off two pounds in ten minutes. A CHINAMAN was before Mr. Pollock this morning on a charge of smuggling opium. P.C. Moffat said that a few minutes' daylight he was on the Praya West, and saw the prisoner, with a number of others, carrying bags away from house No. 229. On seeing him they dropped their burdens, and ran, and he only caught one, the rest getting away in a boat. Mr. Spooner, the chief excise officer, stated that No. 229 was the Opium Farmer's boiling factory, and that probably the opium was only being taken over to Mong-kok-shui, where there was another factory.—His Worship remanded the case, fixing bail at $1,000.

SIR LYON PLAYFAIR writes with regard to the Board of Trade Reports on Sugar Bounties:—It is impossible to draw any sound conclusions as to sugar bounties from the report just issued beyond the fact that Baron de Worms' £9,000,000 are cut down to about one-half. The French bounty is stated in the report to be £20 per ton, or £2 10s. more than the selling price of sugar at 17s. 6d. per cwt., the cost before the recent rise. To suppose that a great national like France would work on such an idiotic fiscal system is beyond all credibility. Mr. Giffen's signature is attached to the report, but the hand which penned the section relating to bounties is not the hand of Esau but of the wily Jacob. If the figures were proper conclusions from the facts, they are a complete condemnation of the bounty scare, for they show that Germany, with a bounty of £1 12s., thirteen times less than that of France, is able to export far more largely than the latter country. If the figures be true conclusions, they would support Lord Salisbury's statement that all bounties go into the pockets of producer, but they annihilate the arguments that any convention is needed in the interests of the consumers of sugar.

TO A MULE.

Thou graunt, grave, gawky Galling gun
On fours! Thou lack, embodied lightning streak;
All hail!

(Be careful, Mules, of his heels.)

Thy drooping ears and languid eye,
Most subtle snare, might well breed confidence,
But thou shalt not obliquely launch thy heels
At me, thou wily rogue!

Great Scott!
How I have sometimes seen th' unwary youth
Of African descent hoist heavenward,
Contorted, writhing, by the merciless hood!
Then thou wouldst turn thy luring, blinking eye
To gaze upon the melancholy work,
Or lure with basilisk glance some victim new.

O mule!
Star-maker!
Dealer in pyrotechnic novelties!
Thou verily art loaded, cocked, and primed,
From early morning till the steps
Of dewy dusk imprint the sky with stars.
I would not drink within
The magic circle of thy cognizant heels
For all the yellow gold that Shasta yields,
Or silken freights that hither swim from Ind.

—Distrust Free Press.

THE Canton correspondent of our evening contemporary is certainly an "amalgam cuss." In his letter in last night's China Mail, which, by the way, is merely a stale rechauffe of our correspondent's communication of the 16th inst., he winds up as follows:—"Let the H.K. C. and M. S. Co. tremble and fear. The two fine steamers that have been undergoing repairs opposite the Bund are being rapidly completed, and soon, no doubt, will begin a keen competition between the new line and the two existing companies. These fine craft, swing round at their anchorage, they will be much missed by the whole community. But there is another pleasure to look forward to—with the accommodation they will afford, the journey to Hongkong and back will be materially made more pleasant." Now, all this is meant to be funny, but it isn't, by a very long way—it is far nearer the truth in its most important points than the missionary ink-blinger had any notion of. But in some parts of his airy palatine the China Mail oracle is not quite accurate. For instance, it is not true that the H.K. C. and M. Steamboat Co. and the China Navigation Co. have won the police the trade of the Canton river. In spite of the attempts of these two Companies to quash the Paisio opposition, that vessel still continues to run and make money. And in spite of these two Companies, with the China Mail apple thrown in as a "make-weight," the steamers Chop-chung and Hai-chung-ching will also run as soon as their repairs have been completed, and what is more, they have been promised and will doubtless receive a considerable amount of support, both foreign and Chinese. Of course, the owner of these fine vessels will be extremely sorry to deprive the Shanien community of the pleasure of seeing them "gracefully swing round at their anchorage," but surely their usefulness when employed on the river will be taken as a set-off to the picturesque scene lost by their re-entering active service. As to the passenger accommodation afforded by these two steamers, we can inform the China Mail authority, that for Chinese it will at least be as comfortable as on any vessel now on the river, and also that, after the new deck-houses have been completed, European passengers will have very little reason for complaint. These vessels are certainly superior craft to the Kiunglung, Wai Cloud, and Kiungchow, and as regards speed the Chop-chung will be found inferior only to the Hankow. One strict rule is to be observed when these steamers commence to run, and that is that no half-price rates will be allowed for missionaries—and their medicines.

THE DAIRY FARM COMPANY, LIMITED.

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the Dairy Farm Company was held this afternoon, at the office, Stanley Street, for the purpose of passing the following resolutions:—

1.—That the capital of the Company be increased to the sum of $100,000 by the issue of 7,000 new shares of $10 each; and that the Memorandum of Association be altered accordingly.

2.—That of the said 7,000 new shares, 5,000 be offered to the persons who, on the 14th day of August, 1889, shall be registered shareholders of the Company, in the proportion of one new share for each old share held by them; and such offer shall be made by a notice specifying the number of new shares which each of such registered shareholders shall be entitled to take up, and limiting a time within which such offer is to be accepted, and such acceptance shall be made by letter addressed to the Secretary of the Company and by the payment to the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation of the sum of $5 in respect of each new share applied for. The notice shall also state that if such offer be not accepted in maner aforesaid the same shall be deemed to be declined and all such shares (if any) are declined, together with the remaining 4,000 shares, shall be offered to the public (including shareholders) in such manner and at such times and on such conditions as the Board may determine.

3.—That Article No. VI. Sub-section 1. of the Company's Articles of Association be altered by inserting therein in lieu of the figures "$30,000," the figures "$100,000," and in lieu of the figures "3,000" the figures "10,000."

Mr. Granville Sharp presided, and among those present were the Hon. C. P. Chater, Hon. B. Layton, Dr. Canille, Messrs. J. D. Humphreys, and W. H. Ray (Director) E. Burnie, C. N. Oorlo, G. C. C. Master, A. P. Stokes, J. P. N. da Silva (manager) and E. W. Matland (secretary).

The Chairman said:—You have been invited here to sanction the proposals above-mentioned, for the purpose of materially increasing the capital of the Company. You are aware that we commenced in a very tentative and experimental manner, and with a very limited amount of capital at our disposal. Those days of small things are gone by now—our period of adolescence is past. We have had our difficulties and defeats in the past, but we are not cast down, but determined to organise a victory out of our difficulties. The amount which we propose to add to the capital will enable us to meet the obligations under which we labor to the directors, in loans which they have made, to the China Fire Insurance Company for a sum advanced on a mortgage on one of our properties, and to the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, for an amount they loaned for the purposes of extending the Company's premises at Pokfulum village. That is one portion of our object. The other is to make our own means, which are very much hampered, our capital is altogether insufficient. The market for our commodities is practically unlimited, and we want to be able to meet this increase. It may be that we shall be obliged to erect some further buildings at Pokfulum—we have now four circular cow-sheds there, and we propose to erect two more. We also want to obtain from England an assistant manager, in which our late Chairman, Dr. Manson, has kindly offered to assist. We suggest that the new buildings should be erected on the land we last purchased, at the top of the hill, to enable us to divide our herd, instead of having it all in one group, as at present. We feel that this is very essential, as a matter of insuring safety. Another matter which we wish to accomplish is the establishment of a central city depot, for distributing the milk. We feel this to be very important indeed, if the wants of the community are to be supplied. We have had a great deal of experience now, and the result of it is that we have come to be sure that milk can be produced and sold in Hongkong in large quantities at a fair and remunerative rate. It is an article of prime necessity, and of general, if not universal, use. Our milk has been commended itself to every one, and very recently the Government Analyst, and also the Colonial Surgeon, expressed very favorable opinions of its high-class quality, ranking it equal to that produced and distributed by the Aylesbury Dairy Company in England. It is the belief of the medical men of the Colony—I think I shall be supported by Dr. Canille—that children and young people don't drink nearly so much milk as they should, and it is very important that they should obtain it of fine quality. At present we cannot obtain it in a large quantity. It is only lately I have been indulged with a supply, and one of the directors informs me that he has had none yet. We hope, therefore, that you will accept our proposal to increase the means at our disposal.—He then moved the first resolution.

Mr. Burnie seconded, and it was passed.

The Hon. C. P. Chater moved the adoption of the second.

Mr. McCulloch asked if there was anything to indicate how the directors intended offering the shares.

The Chairman replied that four thousand would be offered to the public, including the shareholders.

Mr. McCulloch pointed out that there were a great many shareholders who had held their shares a long time and had lost a good deal of interest, and it would be hardly fair to them to allow new shareholders to come in at par. He hoped the directors would take that into their consideration.

The Chairman said that it was possible the directors would take the point before them, but they would not see their way just then to altering the resolution, as it stood. They had a discretionary power, which they were at liberty to exercise.
